

PREDICT LEASE-LEND PLAN WILL EMERGE VICTOR

President's Scheme for Aiding Britain Faces "Lengthy Debate"

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Ultimate approval of President Roosevelt's lease-lend plan for aiding the British was predicted by Democratic leaders of congress today, but they conceded that it would have to stand the test of "lengthy debate".

Providing for the lease and loan of war equipment to Britain, with repayment in kind or in raw materials such as rubber upon conclusion of hostilities, the proposal already has become the foremost issue of the new 77th congress and critics of administration foreign policy asserted that it would be stoutly opposed.

Among these, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) announced he would devote almost his "entire time" to fighting the plan. Senators La Follette (Prog-Wis) and Nye (R-ND) expressed opposition to giving the president wide authority to effect this type of assistance to Britain and administration chieftains, on the other hand, expressed confidence in eventual acceptance of the proposal by congress.

A closer drawing of the lines of the controversy appeared, however, to await Roosevelt's presentation of his annual message on Monday and the introduction of legislation embodying the plan.

Wants "General" Authority

The chief executive planned to work on the message over the weekend. Indications were that it would deal chiefly with the paramount problems of foreign policy, including pressing ques'ons of aid to Britain, in the same vein as his defense broadcast of last Sunday night.

Roosevelt already has said that legislation to carry out the lease-lend plan would have to be fairly general in its provisions since all the things to be done could not be anticipated in writing the law. To this Senator Majority Leader Barkley added that the president would ask for broad and unlimited powers to make the plan effective.

Following initial organization sessions yesterday both house and senate were in recess today, but meetings of Democratic and Republican senators were called for the purpose of perfecting the senate's party machinery.

Court Refuses Ordered Verdict for 'I Am'-ers

Los Angeles, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Nine leaders of the "I Am" movement still faced mail fraud charges today, following denial by U. S. District Judge Leon R. Yankwich of their motions for instructed verdicts of acquittal.

Judge Yankwich yesterday eliminated Grant Lewis as a defendant in the trial, but held the jury should determine the good faith of the others, including Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, widow of the founder of the organization, and their son, Donald.

He instructed the jury to return to court Monday, when he said he would rule on various defense motions to strike parts of the government's testimony.

The ruling came at the end of a day's arguments on the motions, during which Charles R. Carr, defense attorney, contended that money received from nearly 3,000,000 followers of the "I Am" movement was presented voluntarily as "love gifts", or paid for its publications.

Dying Man Refuses to Tell Anything of Self

Litchfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—A tall, sandy-haired man who gave his name as John Scott and said he was 59 years old, but volunteered no more information about himself, died yesterday in St. Francis hospital after he was found ill in the town hall of Walshville, south of here.

Deputy Sheriff R. G. Stiefel of Hillsboro, who ordered Scott's removal to the hospital, said death was caused either by exposure and hunger, or by a heart attack.

Stiefel said that Scott, who was well dressed and carried a shaving kit, told him that he had brothers and sisters, but declined to reveal their addresses. The body lies unclaimed in Dodd's funeral home.

YOUNG HUNTER KILLED

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Richard Rhodes, 14, died yesterday in a hospital of a wound suffered Thursday while he was hunting with his mother, Mrs. Jesse Rhodes, near their home at Berry, a few miles south of here.

Coroner W. L. Drago said Mrs. Rhodes related that the boy was shot as he twirled a revolver on his finger and accidentally discharged it.

'Ordinary' Budget to Show Balance, Authorities State

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, it was reported authoritatively today, will show a balance between tax revenues and "normal expenses" of the government in his forthcoming budget.

The budget, to be submitted to Congress next week, will be for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

However, the "normal expenses"—those exclusive of emergency defense costs—will amount to about $8,000,000,000 out of a total budget of approximately $17,000,000,000, it was reported, indicating a deficit of nearly $9,000,000,000.

The President announced weeks ago that he would pare non-defense items in an effort to balance the "ordinary" budget.

The "ordinary budget," it was said, will include all non-defense costs, expected to total roughly $7,000,000,000, plus $1,000,000,000 or more of defense expenditures, that probably would have been incurred if there were no emergency armament program.

$10,000,000,000 for Defense
The total defense budget, it was learned, will be about $10,000,000,000, of which approximately $9,000,000,000 will be labelled as emergency costs, to be financed through both new taxes and borrowing.

Due to better business and several new taxes levied last year, federal revenues were estimated for the coming fiscal year (beginning next July 1) at a little over $8,000,000,000—a $1,700,000,000 gain over expectations for the current year.

This gain was expected to arise from greater yields on old taxes plus proceeds of the 10 per cent defense supertax on incomes, higher taxes on many commodities such as cigarettes and gasoline, and a stiff excess profits tax on corporations.

At the Capitol Representative Cannon (D-Mont), House appropriations committee member, said he expected that for the first time the budget would include $212,000,000 for parity payments to farmers. That was the amount which Congress provided last session.

Japs Reject Demands for Apology to U. S.

Peiping, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Japanese military authorities were reported today to have flatly rejected demands for an apology for the "illegal arrest" of five United States marines in a cabaret incident New Year's Eve.

In a communication delivered to Col. Allen H. Turnage, U. S. marine commander, the Japanese not only declined to apologize but declared the Americans were responsible for the incident and demanded that they apologize, authoritative sources declared.

The Japanese counter demands were said to have been sharply rejected by Turnage.

The marine commander was reported to have told the Japanese that his demands for an apology still stood.

In addition to an apology he had demanded that those responsible be punished and that he be given assurances against future arrests of like nature.

AMBASSADOR LEAVES

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Ambassador William Phillips departed for his post at Rome today aboard Pan American Airways' Atlantic Clipper. He said he was "going back in a routine way" and with "no special instructions".

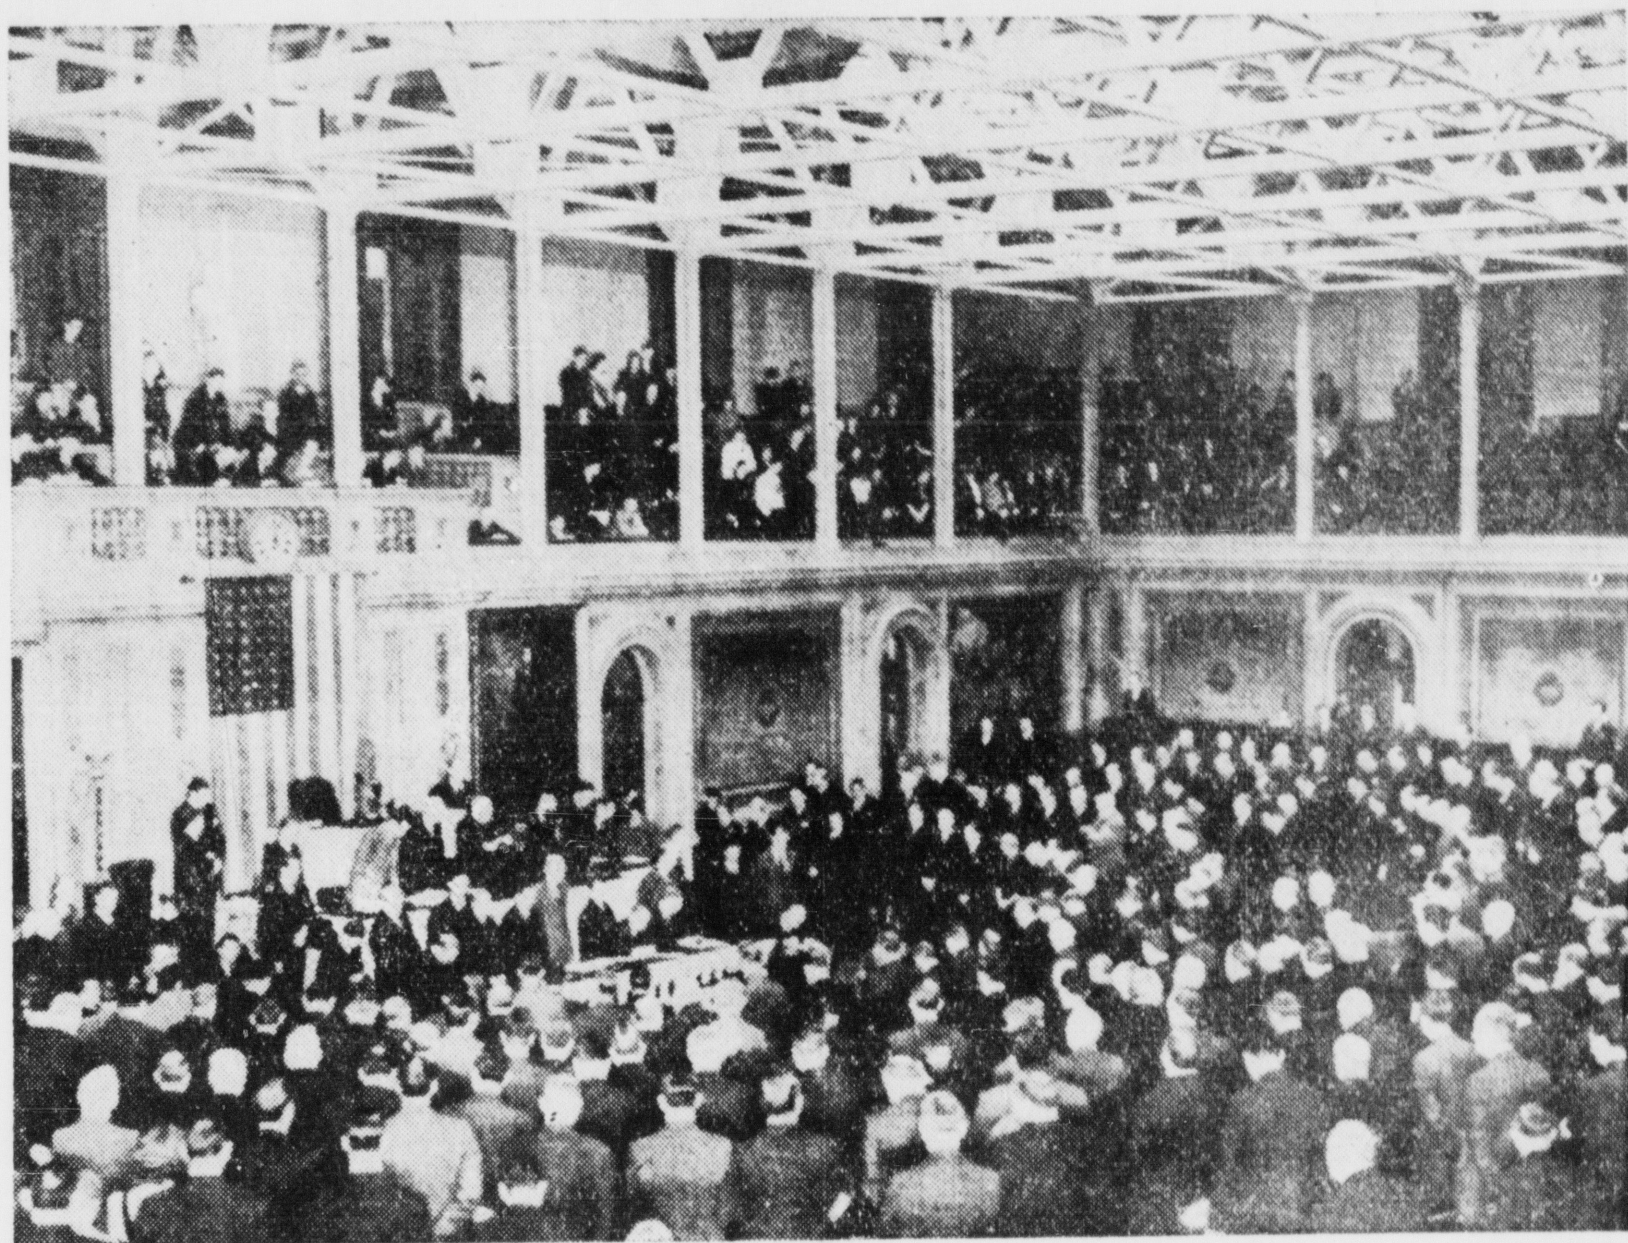

1,800,000 CASUALTIES

Chungking, China, Jan. 4.—Chinese military headquarters stated tonight that Japanese casualties since the start of the war, July 7, 1937, numbered 1,800,000—killed and wounded.

The weather bureau at Chicago predicted that the cold wave would reach the Atlantic seaboard late tonight and that it would be felt as far south as the Gulf coast.

Sub-zero temperatures prevailed through North Dakota and Minnesota and in parts of Wisconsin. The mercury was dropping rapidly toward the zero mark in northern Nebraska and Iowa.

Congress Opens Crucial Session

Writer of Threat to Betty Grable, Actress, Is Held

Pittsburgh, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A tall, sickly youth whom Federal Bureau of Investigation agents said referred to himself as "the Yellow Hornet", was held today on a federal warrant which charged that he threatened to harm beautiful Betty Grable of the screen unless she paid $2,000.

FBI agents identified him as 18-year-old James Willard Porter, now in custody at Washington, Pa., his home near Pittsburgh, pending arraignment before a U. S. Commissioner here.

FBI Agent Samuel K. McKee said the threat was contained in a letter mailed to Miss Grable's Hollywood studio December 6. He said the letter read in part:

"You have been selected by me, the Yellow Hornet, to pay the sum of $2,000. The amount will be sent by special delivery, any way you prefer, by December 25, Christmas Day, or you will thus suffer the result."

"This is not a joke, but strictly business. If you, however, don't send this money x x x, I will personally come out and get you."

The FBI said in a statement that besides Miss Grable, five residents of Washington, Pa., has received letters admittedly written by Porter.

Friends of Porter, who lived at Washington with his widowed mother and four older sisters, said they knew nothing of the letters.

DOCTOR LEAVES $500,000

St. Louis, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Dr. Percy H. Swahlen, nationally-known obstetrician and gynecologist who delivered more than 10,000 babies during his career, left an estate estimated at $500,000. He died Dec. 10 at the age of 63.

Requests in his will filed yesterday totaled 268,000, including $25,000 apiece to St. Louis University and DePaul University of Greencastle, Ind. The residue was left to relatives.

A snowstorm struck northwestern Minnesota. A heavy snow covered the area around Cedar Rapids, Ia., while light snow flurries accompanied the cold in Illinois, Michigan and northwestern Missouri.

A blinding snowstorm of short duration struck Chicago and northern Illinois last night. The wind driven flakes brought a virtual blackout to Chicago's loop.

The wind attained a velocity of from 35 to 40 miles an hour in Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois.

In House Hopper

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Constitutional amendments to limit the terms of the president and the vice president to six years, with reelection barred, were sought in resolutions introduced yesterday by three Republican representatives.

Among other measures introduced were these by representatives:

Reed (R-Ill): Designating the last Thursday in November annually as Thanksgiving Day (HJR 24).

Deadlock in Fort Wayne IHC Strike Continues Today

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 4.—(AP)—A deadlock in strike-settlement negotiations sent representatives of the International Harvester Company and the CIO United Automobile Workers back into separate meetings today.

After a day-long joint meeting which ended shortly before midnight David T. Roadley, federal labor conciliator, said the conferees were "still deadlocked on six major issues".

Roadley, two representatives of the Indiana labor department and one of the National Defense Commission conferred with the company and union negotiators in their first session since UAW employees at the firm's truck plant here walked out Tuesday.

The mediators shuttled between the two groups today.

New Terms Submitted
The UAW submitted new terms at yesterday's parley and the management withdrew for a time to discuss them alone. The proposals were not revealed.

However, the issues on which Roadley said they were divided sharply were pay of stewards, minimum and hiring wage rates, seniority, a no-strike and no-lockout clause, compensation for employees called for military service and a 10 per cent wage bonus for night shift workers.

Co-operating with Roadley in

British Suspect Nazi Attempt to Involve Ireland

BULLETIN

Dublin, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The following official statement was issued by the Irish government today:

Two magnetic sea mines dropped at Eniskerry were identified as of German origin, so also bombs dropped at Osligate, county Wexford.

Statements on the American radio that Dublin was subjected to a daylight bombing raid yesterday and that the Irish government threatened to expel the German minister are false.

(By The Associated Press)

London, Jan. 4.—British sources, flatly blaming Germany for recent bombings of Ireland (Eire), suggested today the nazis were trying to force that neutral republic into the war as a British ally with the hope of seizing Irish bases as jumping off spots for an invasion of England.

Occupation of Ireland also would give the Germans "ideal naval and air bases to continue their assaults on British sea commerce, these sources said.

Irish bases would increase Germany's chance for a successful invasion "immeasurably," it was said, since the British would be forced to meet attacks from both the east and west.

Denied in Berlin
(A German spokesman in Berlin said in reference to the bombing of Ireland that "those bombs are English or they are imaginary. Our fliers are not and have not been sent to Ireland. x x x")

British war resources would be strained further should Ireland enter the conflict, these sources commented, because the little republic is woefully deficient in anti-aircraft guns, artillery and ammunition.

Several weeks ago Ireland blockaded her main highways as one of numerous precautions against invasion, it was recalled, but she has little means of fighting off an invasion attempt.

The Irish charge d'affaires in Berlin has been instructed by his government to make an "energetic protest" to the German government over the series of bomb attacks.

Defense Spending is Half Billion Monthly

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Defense spending reached a monthly pace of almost half a billion dollars at the turn of the year.

Final December figures, available at the treasury for the first time today, showed the military activities of the war and navy departments cost $459,878,832.

Although this pace is scheduled to rise to about $750,000,000 in another six months, it was in line with budget estimates for a gradual step up in the defense program.

British Claim Victory In Siege of Italians' Libyan Base of Bardia

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

That was a thought-inspiring bit of speculation—though a trifle spotty on the fallacious side—in which an authorized nazi economic expert in Berlin indulged yesterday, when he told foreign newspapermen that Canada never could fill the place of a defeated Britain as the center of empire.

This authoritative expert argued from the assumption that England is about to be vanquished, apparently being unfamiliar with the old saying that there's many a slip 'twixt the French coast and the chalk cliffs of Dover. He figured that the government would emigrate to Canada, taking the navy along.

He pointed out that it would be impossible to transport the 45,000,000 people of the British Isles, or the army of 3,000,000, or the vast industries. And how true that is—

"Canada isn't at all suited as a basis for continuing the war", he said. "Her potentialities are exceedingly small. She has no munitions industries to speak of".

The expert didn't give his reason for this seemingly extraneous statement, but it presumably was calculated to dampen the morale of the people of Britain. Obviously he had in mind Premier Churchill's historic speech in Commons on June 4, when the nazi avalanche was burying the allies.

"We shall never surrender," Churchill declared, "and even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or even a part of it is subjugated and starving, then our empire across the seas, armed by the British fleet, will carry on the struggle".

It is an interesting commentary on the thoroughness of the German mind that the nazis have been giving due consideration to this statement.

However, the nazi economist either overlooked or deliberately ignored the most important point in the situation. On August 18, 1938, President Roosevelt in a speech at Kingston, Ontario, told the Canadians:

"I give you assurance that the people of the United States will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire".

Last August Roosevelt and Canadian Premier MacKenzie King had a conference at which they linked the defenses of the United States and Canada to preserve their safety against any threats from across the seas.

The meaning of this agreement is so clear that it is given to wonder how the Germans think they could avoid war with the combined Canadian and American forces if the British throne were transferred to Ottawa.

Repeated Bombing of American Mission by Japanese is Charged

Shanghai, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Stations of the American Convent Mission in Hupeh province "have been repeatedly bombed by Japanese fliers in the past eight months despite the display of the American flag", Hjalmar Graven of Minneapolis, Minn., a representative of the mission, said today.

The demolished properties, he added, included churches, a school and missionary residences. The mission headquarters are at Chicago.

Graven was en route to the United States. With him were Miss Mildred Nelson of Rockford, Ill., and Miss Viola Carson of Chicago, who were members of his mission.

Greek Flying Fields Would Horrify United States Government Experts

(By The Associated Press)
Athens, Greece, Jan. 4.—An accelerated Greek advance against the important Albanian port of Valona was foreseen in authoritative quarters today, following reports that Italian defense lines in the central sector had been breached.

The exact location of the Greek break-through was not given, but a Greek spokesman said fascist lines to the north and east of Klisura and Tepeleni had been pierced. It is along a road running from Klisura, westward through Tepeleni, that the Greeks have aimed one of two simultaneous drives at Valona. The other column is fighting northward along the Adriatic coast.

The Greek planes dodge in and out of mountain passes, around peaks, far below the high flying Italian planes and screened from them by mist, the correspondent said.

Half of Positions in British Hands: Much of Garrison Taken

BULLETIN

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 4.—(AP)—British military headquarters claimed victory in the siege of the Italian Libyan base of Bardia today, with almost half the fascist defense positions taken and between a quarter and a third of the garrison captured.

An official communique said Australian troops, credited yesterday with the first penetration of the Bardia defenses, had carried on this break through on nine mile front in the center of the fascist lines.

With more than 5,000 Italians reported captured in the initial penetration reported yesterday, military circles indicated today the remainder of the defense forces—said to be some 20,000 in all—might as well surrender now.

A British communique last night said storming of the cracked defenses was continuing with such speed that the "mop-up" might be completed within "a few days".

(By The Associated Press)

On the Libyan and Albanian battlefronts the foes of fascist Italy were reported smashing today through gaps torn in Italian lines of defense.

Australian shock troops were said to be widening a breach torn through the five mile deep system of blockhouses, barbed wire and machine gun nests guarding besieged Bardia.

The British reported more than 5,000 members of the "suicide garrison" of 20,000 men at the Libyan base were captured in the first day's fierce assault.

The attack, started at dawn yesterday after a heavy, night long aerial bombardment, was claimed by the British to have been victorious today.

Greeks Breach Defenses

In the central sector of Albania, the Greeks reported their forces breached Italian defenses, opening the way for an "important development" in drives toward Valona, Berat and Elbasani.

Desperate Italian counter attacks in the Klisura-Tepeleni area failed to stem the Greeks, said dispatches from Athens.

Neutral Ireland's (Eire's) accusation that German airmen were responsible for bombs dropped in the Dublin area, and the government's demand for reparations and assurances against further attacks elicited this response from an authorized German spokesman in Berlin:

"Those bombs are English, or they are imaginary".

RAF Pounds Bremen

Britons also put the blame on Germany, but many were at a loss to explain the reason for the attacks unless it was a nazi attempt to get the British to divert troops to the west coast across from Ireland.

Some British sources suggested that the nazis were trying to force the neutral republic into the war with the hope of seizing British bases are jumping off spots for an invasion of England.

British bombers were reported to have smashed for the third successive night at the important German port and industrial city of Bremen.

Overnight, too, nazi air raiders made a prolonged attack on a town in the west of England.

GOING-AWAY-TO-COLLEGE SET AGAIN HITS THE TRAIL THAT LEADS TO DISTANT CAMPUSES

Today's chapter in the annual post-holiday collegiate chronicle has to do the town's student sons and daughters, who are already heading for distant campuses.

Eastern-bound collegians this weekend include Wilbur Hart, who left today for Ithaca, N. Y. to complete his senior year at Cornell; and Alan Wienman, who will be off this afternoon for Cambridge, Mass. Alan, a first-year student at Harvard, enjoyed a visit with his brother-in-law and sister, Assemblyman and Mrs. B. G. Slater (Ruth Wienman) of Milwaukee here at the home of his parents, the B. Wiennans of College avenue, during the holiday recess.

Boarding a 7 o'clock train this morning for the south were Kathryn Dunkelberger and her brother, Lloyd. Jr. Kathryn is a sophomore at Duke university in Durham, N. C., where her brother is spending his freshman year.

Last Saturday evening, Kathryn and her brother accompanied their parents, the L. E. Dunkelbergers of 614 Brinton avenue, to Chicago to attend the wedding of Miss Jean Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Brooks of Chicago, to Jack Gordon Campbell, which was solemnized in a 7 o'clock ceremony at the chapel of Northwestern university. Almost 200 guests attended the nuptial service, and were entertained later at a reception at the Tam O'Shanter Country club.

The bridegroom, whose father is Mr. Dunkelberger's cousin, recently received a commission as ensign, and has been assigned to submarine service at Philadelphia for a month, before leaving for active duty at New London, Conn.

On Tuesday, Lucile Ralston and her sister, Joan, daughters of Mrs. John Gould Ralston, will be leaving "Reynoldswood" for Simsbury, Conn. to resume their studies at Miss Ethel Walker's school for girls. Their cousin, Douglas Harvey, expects to start for Newport tomorrow to continue his work at St. George's school, after spending the holiday season with his sister, Miss Polly Harvey, at his aunt's home.

On New Year's Eve, Joan attended a dinner party and the Junior Assembly at the Casino in Chicago. Mrs. John L. Cochran of Chicago and Mrs. Carey of Lake Forest, whose daughters also attend Miss Walker's school; and Mrs. Charles Wiman of Davenport and Chicago were among the hostesses at this brilliant event, attended by some 300 guests.

On Monday evening, Lucile and Douglas were guests at the Saddle and Cycle club dinner-dance. They were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood of Chicago, whose daughter, Nancy, accompanied them to Dixon. Nancy's parents were guests at "Reynoldswood" over New Year's Day, and she returned to Chicago with them after the holiday.

Early Rules

Mrs. America will get her rules for smart dressing during spring and summer early in January instead of late in February this year. New York's Fashion Futures show, which fashion authorities themselves are sponsoring, will clearly outline what's to be and what's not to be worn during the months ahead. Meanwhile, the fashion-minded are agog to know whether hats will be frill-frou nothings, as is the John-Fredericks model above, or simple, high-crowned and brimmed, like the same designer's swash-buckling felt hat, below.

MRS. HELMICK HAS SMORGASBORD

A Swedish smorgasbord was the party treat awaiting members of the United Spanish War Auxiliary and their husbands last evening at the home of the auxiliary president, Mrs. D. E. Helmick. Mrs. Robert Brewster assisted her mother in serving, their guests numbering 32.

Miss Emma Holland of Chicago, who served as a nurse in the Spanish-American war, was an out of town guest. She has been a holiday guest at the George Horton home.

Card games, and exchange of "secret sister" gifts followed the supper.

P. T. A. HAS "FUN" MEETING

Four tables of 500 and one of bunco were in play at last evening's "fun" meeting of the Stony Point Parent-Teacher association. The hostess committee includes Mrs. Robert Brewster, Mrs. E. S. Rosecrans, Mrs. L. E. Young, and Mrs. Charles Finley.

From Chicago
Miss Grace O'Malley, faculty member at the Lincoln grade school, returned today from a week's visit in Chicago with her sister, Miss Mary O'Malley.

Fifty Couples Turn Out for "Winter Frolic"

The first snow flurry of the new year hastened young guests indoors at Brinton Memorial Masonic temple last evening to a wintry party setting which transformed the ballroom for a merry Winter Frolic staged by Job's Daughters of Dixon bethel. About 50 couples, including Job's Daughters, DeMolays, their dates and friends from Dixon, Mt. Morris and Sterling, were in attendance.

Recording orchestras provided dance tunes from 8:30 o'clock until midnight. Refreshments of popcorn balls and frappe were served by the party hostesses.

Patrons and patronesses were council members of the bethel, including Mrs. James Martin, guardian; Edwin Bunnell, Sr., associate guardian; and Mrs. Walter Fallstrom, treasurer.

Mrs. Miller Has Annual Party

The home of Mrs. Guy Miller was the scene of holiday merry-making on Tuesday afternoon when this generous Dixon hostess entertained at her twenty-seventh annual Christmas party for children of her acquaintance. Thirty-six young guests were invited, although illness prevented several from attending.

Lighting of Santa's pipe has become a traditional part of the festivities, as have indoor fireworks, which were lighted early at Tuesday's party so as not to be overlooked as they were last year. Large kites were favors for the boys, and quintuplet paper dolls were presented to the little girls.

Additional prizes were awarded in games and contests. Ice cream, Santas, chocolate animal cookies, cake, and candy were served to the party-goers as the concluding pleasure of the afternoon's fun. Several of the mothers assisted Mrs. Miller in carrying out her party plans.

PALMYRA UNIT
Palmyra Home Bureau unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Keith Swarts, Thursday afternoon. A health practice will be suggested during roll call. "Pie Crusts and Fillings" is the theme for the major lesson, and first aid will be discussed during the minor study.

O. E. S. CLUB
Members of the O. E. S. Parlor club will meet at Brinton Memorial Masonic temple for a 2 o'clock dessert-bridge on Monday. The hostess committee includes Mrs. Robert Brewster, Mrs. E. S. Rosecrans, Mrs. L. E. Young, and Mrs. Charles Finley.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:
"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Vultures of Humanity
No human misfortune is so great that some are not found ready to turn it to their advantage—human vultures circling ever around the weak and sore-beset, waiting for them to stagger and fall.

Newest of these schemes to profit by the extremities of others is the "trade school racket." It is known that there are jobs now for trained mechanics and other skilled workers, while the unskilled still find it hard to get a job. So "gyp" job-training schools immediately spring up to snare the savings of hopeful young men with promises of jobs in airplane and other defense plants. The Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., the Minneapolis Better Business Bureau, and various chambers of commerce have had complaints of such "schools" which neither had equipment for proper training, nor connections to get the promised jobs.

Look before you leap, these agencies advise all young men considering taking training courses, and it is good advice in this case as in all others.

Bravery—Plus
Sheer physical bravery is common enough. Even among the luckless Italian troops in Albania and Libya there are probably plenty of men holding their posts and dying stolidly.

But among the British there is a certain quality added, an ability to make a joke of misfortune and to greet the grimdest fate with a wry smile.

British bookshelves are drawing the admiration to carry on despite fire and bomb. Their export trade, especially among antiquarians, is encouraged by the government, because it brings exchange to England for articles produced long ago. Stocks of some have already been damaged, but their defiant spirit is well shown by one who recently advertised in poetic tone but grim spirit:

"Rumour, thou lying jade, we have not been hit. We are functioning. Our great stocks are intact. Our buildings have not been damaged."

SERIAL STORY

CHRISTMAS RUSH

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

JERRY CLOSES A YEAR
CHAPTER XII
DR. AND MRS. CONNELLY went directly to Jerry's room, when they reached the hospital, leaving Mary and the twins in the downstairs office. Kathleen thumbed through an out-dated magazine. Sheila and Mary waited near the window.

"I wonder if Dad and Mother will break the news to Jerry about Valerie," Sheila said. "He'll never believe we didn't have something to do with her leaving in a huff."

Mary nodded. The thought had been troubling her since Valerie stormed out of this same room five hours ago. Jerry loved Valerie. Mary loved Jerry. Valerie was in love only with herself. It was like a nursery rhyme riddle with no answer.

It was up to Jerry to find the answer. But how could they tell him what Valerie had said? Who would tell him?

"I don't know how that brother of mine could be so blind," Sheila went on. "He should have been wise to Valerie five minutes after he met her."

"He was unconscious while Valerie carried on about her car," Mary began.

"He's been unconscious for six months," Kathleen added, from behind the magazine. "He had to wake up sometime."

But the ending of Jerry's romance with Valerie would not solve Mary's problem. Jerry might be bitter, against his family, against her. He might even go through with his determination to quit medicine. If he did that, there was little hope that she would ever have the opportunity of seeing him again.

And seeing him was necessary. If Jerry returned to school, they might begin dating again, as they had before Valerie intruded. Some day—Mary clung to the hope—

Jerry might fall in love with her. Then, after Jerry had finished school—
Martha's voice interrupted: "Jerry's awake now. He wants to see you. He asked particularly for you, Mary."

JERRY was grinning as they filed into the room. Bandages encircled his head. A framework supported his broken arm. His face was pale and drawn, but he still could grin.

"Happy New Year! Here, be careful"—Kathleen and Sheila had rushed to the side of the bed to kiss him—"I'm fragile. I break easily."

Dr. Connelly's face and that of his wife mirrored their happiness. "Not so fragile, son," the doctor said. "The raps you took would have dented a stone wall. And that hard head of yours didn't even crack."

"Queer place to spend New Year's," Jerry was saying. "I tried to get home for that annual family breakfast. Didn't quite make it."

"Let's forget last night," Martha suggested.

"No, don't want to," Jerry persisted. "I've a lot of things to tell you. Valerie and I are through!"

"You are?" The doctor's surprise seemed genuine.

"Yes. Washed up. Finished." Jerry reached for his mother's hand, grasped it tightly. "I'll tell you about it and then it will be buried in the past—that's the rule, isn't it? And all of this happened before midnight." They waited for him to continue.

"It started when I said I had to be home this morning. Val wasn't coming at first, but finally gave in when I promised to take her home early. We kept arguing most of the time during the drive over here. Val said some things I didn't like about you."

"I told her she'd have to like my family if she was going to marry me, and she set me back on my heels by telling me that she had no intention of marrying me—ever. I got mad then, took her home. And on the way, we hit this other car."

"Val told us, too. While you were unconscious," Martha said softly. "It's all over and best forgotten, son," Hugh advised. "You'll have to stay here for a couple of weeks, and you'll be shaky for a month or so, but you'll get over this—" and you'll get over Val, too."

"I'm over that right now, Dad." Jerry's glance went around the room. "I've been pretty much of a fool. I've hurt you, Mother, and you, too, Dad. Say, think you could be using an associate in your office in a year or two? I'm going back to school."

They were all talking then, telling Jerry of Sheila's arrest, of the new car, of plans for the spring semester. But not for long. Dr. Connelly soon hurried them out of the room.

"What happened last year is past," Martha said as she kissed her son. "Hurry and get well. You're starting this new year from scratch."

"Mother, send Mary back here, just for a minute," Jerry whispered. "You all wait in the hall. I've something to say to her, alone."

THE doctor, Martha and the twins stood beside the train. In a few minutes Sheila and Kathleen would be on the way back to school.

"Tell the house mother we're keeping Mary for a week," Martha said. "Jerry wants her to stay, and it makes the long days in the hospital more endurable for him."

"Wait till the girls find out he wouldn't even let her come to the train to see us off—" Kathleen laughed.

"Don't you dare—" Martha began, then laughed herself.

"And we'll make plans to bring Mary back with us for spring vacation," Sheila reminded them. "That will be such a surprise for Jerry!"

"Jerry will probably have more to say about that than you will," Hugh said. "Better say goodbye now. Time for the train to pull out. Call us when you arrive, and we'll let you know how Jerry's getting along. Don't worry about him. Goodbye—"

HUGH settled himself in his chair, reached for his pipe. Martha's knitting needles clicked rapidly.

"Well, they're gone again," she said. "And we're alone—until yesterday we were planning what we would be doing for Christmas."

"And doing some of the things we did not plan—"

"I never dreamed we could cram so much into two weeks' time," Hugh smiled at her, as he unfolded his evening paper.

"Isn't that what they call it—Christmas rush?"

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited)

Washington, Jan. 3.—The monetary problem of keeping the nation's defense inflation from running away with itself has plumped right down into the feud of the New Deal Hatfields and McCoy's.

Treasury Secretary H. McCoy Morgenthau was obviously perturbed when he let it out that Federal Reserve Chairman, M. Hatfield Eccles was planning an important announcement on the subject. His associate-McCoy's in the treasury explained privately that Federal Reserve had not furnished them a copy of the highly important announcement until two days before it was given to the public, which was hardly enough time to analyze it thoroughly. Mr. M. himself was told, rather than consulted about it, in a five-minute conference with Eccles. Consequently the treasury boys are now openly oiling their rifles, singing out that they do not relish the Eccles idea of taking over their banking powers, including the Comptroller General's office and Federal Deposit Insurance.

The Hatfields down at Federal Reserve have been equally agitated because Morgenthau let the newspapers know Eccles was contemplating such a statement before Eccles was ready. In Morgenthau's defense let it be said the newsmen saw Eccles come out of his office, and pressed the disclosure which was very, very limited.

Morgenthau is going to get really angry when he learns that Eccles worked with Chairman Robert Wagner of the senate banking and currency committee investigation, for days in advance. Wagner has been conducting an unprecedented casual inquiry into monetary policy for more than a year without any noticeable activity. A long questionnaire has been sent to various government departments and banks, and it was this questionnaire which gave Federal Reserve an opportunity to turn the Wagner inquiry into channels which Eccles designated in his statement.

The sub-surface understanding here is that Wagner will now take the ball and become the guiding force in working out whatever is to be done to keep the old inflationary money policies (gold, silver, etc.) from breeding wings on dollars. While Wagner is not an expert on financial matters, he will function as head of a committee of experts such as Senator Carter Glass. The Eccles announcement is supposed to have been planned largely as a steam whistle for that inquiry.

As for Morgenthau's part, it would astound all his friends here if the old bank holding company bill, which was so obnoxious to Eccles, were not suddenly pushed to the front in congress for consideration.

While all the blame for this matter has been descending upon the head of Eccles, it is true the plan had advance approval of the advisory council representing the twelve Federal Reserve bank districts. It is also true that impartial bystanders who are neither Hatfields nor McCoy's, all agree the strongest possible action of some kind or another should be taken. Although the public rarely pays much attention to such complex matters, nothing could possibly be more important to the man in the street, because the decision presumes to determine roughly how much he pays for his bread and butter in work and money.

The real question in many objective minds is whether Eccles has proposed enough, or whether any other effective means can be found to prevent runaway prices. Even in dictatorial Italy the death penalty was adopted recently as maximum punishment for anyone caught charging exorbitant prices. As the gold and silver policy failed to work affirmatively to raise prices up to now, there may be some valid reason to inquire whether it will work negatively if reversed.

The Eccles announcement claimed its remedies would go to root causes of the money matter although actually it does not propose to do so. It would not stop the buying of gold and silver by the treasury, only merely sterilize the continued purchase of foreign gold to keep it out of our money system temporarily. Avoiding the cause, it seeks only to nullify the effect.

In truth it seems to be little more than a superficial effort to allay public fears in advance, what caused all the internal trouble here about it was that Eccles expanded it to include a grab for all the banking authority he has long sought, and tread upon important toes.

The amount of coin and currency in circulation in the United States reached a high of $7,679,000,000 on Dec. 20, 1939.

Graduate of Old Dixon College in Race for Justice

Effingham, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—June C. Smith, 64, a Centralia attorney and former president of the Illinois State Bar Association, is the Republican choice for state Supreme court justice from the Second judicial district.

He was given the nomination at the district convention yesterday on the first ballot and will oppose Circuit Judge Franklin R. Dove of Shelbyville, the Democratic nominee, in a special election Feb. 25.

Smith promised "an aggressive campaign in every county of the district" to win the post left vacant by the death of Norman L. Jones of Carrollton. The term expires in June, 1942.

When an official tabulation showed Smith leading 211 to 93 over former Circuit Judge Jesse R. Brown of Edwardsville, the only other candidate. The convention adopted a motion to make the nomination unanimous. Nomination required 157 votes.

Lieutenant Governor-elect Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville was given seven "favorite son" votes by the Jersey county delegation but his name was not formally placed in nomination.

In a keynote speech Cross said that Republicans have never elected a Supreme court justice in the Second district but this year "the Democratic tradition will be broken."

Smith, son of a Washington county farmer, was graduated from law school at Northern Illinois College at Dixon. He was elected state's attorney later and served as Assistant Attorney General of Illinois from 1909 to 1912. He headed the state bar association in 1932, Smith is married and has two married daughters.

Telephone Co. Gives Operators New Training

The telephone companies are aware that all their operators aren't all they should be.

An office in Ohio put on sixteen pany was putting on sixteen three-minute acts, with working girls as actresses. The dramas were viewed by squads of sixty girls each day for many weeks.

The company is striving to get away from the inflexible routine and forced politeness that so many operators affect. They are teaching the girls to speak in a more natural way.

Telephone users ask incredibly stupid questions and express unreasonable impatience. The new methods pacify the customers and make them feel that the company is genuinely interested in their problems.

Callers, for example, get hot because party lines are busy and they ask the company to break through for them something that is forbidden except in an emergency.

"Well, what can be done to stop this infernal chatter on the line?" they ask.

Nothing much can be done other than to buy a single party line.

The way the girls release this information can make the customer boiling mad, or it can make him ponder the situation soberly. It's interesting to see how a bright girl does it.

GAMES LAST NIGHT

Dixon 44; Mendota 22.
Belvidere 30; DeKalb 16.
Sterling 25; Princeton 22.

Dixon's amazing underclassmen rolled up their seventh straight victory of the current season last night as they routed the Mendota sophomores, 44 to 22, in the preliminary game there.

Although there are spots of rough playing, the Dixon underclassmen show remarkable passing ability and on the scoring end they can not be criticized. Last night it was young Walter Knack's turn to tally the largest total as he made nine buckets and two free throws for 20 points.

Frank Leeper, his running mate chalked up 17 tallies of his own. Mendota was held scoreless until the closing seconds of the first period when Thomas sank a free throw on a foul by Loftus. By that time the Dixon quintet had rolled up 21 points and there didn't seem to be much doubt as to the outcome.

Reserves Are Used Coach Lindell turned lose his reserves and in the second period Mendota came back to count 13 points against four by the Dukes.

In the third frame Leeper and Knack returned to the fray and each counted five tallies. In the last quarter each scored four points and Evans made a free throw.

Nearly all of the Dixon shots were made near the bucket, indicating the ease with which the locals crashed through the defenses.

The triumph, coupled with other games around the circuit, put the Dukes in a tie for the lead with Belvidere.

U. S. AIR DEFENSE STRATEGY AIMED AT FAR SHORES

American Plane Forces Are Still Largely On Paper

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor
New York, Jan. 4.—In appraising American air power in terms of its warplanes, the first question which must be asked is, "What are they going to be used for?"

As few as 6,000 medium and long-range bombers would make the air defenses of the Western Hemisphere impregnable, in the opinion of many leading exponents of air power.

Our strategy, at present, does not encompass the use of great swarms of pursuit planes, as in England, for the defense of our industrial areas. American air defense is predicated on nailing an enemy's bombers before bases can be established from which they can operate against our vulnerable areas.

Criticism of American air power as it exists today, in comparison with what is planned for it in the next two years, appears justified. Our air forces are still largely on paper.

Less Than 2,500 Planes

The navy air service, the naval reserve and the marine corps have less than 2,500 planes. The army air corps has less than 3,000. Both figures include trainers. The army air corps has less than 3,000. Both figures include trainers. The number of first-line combat planes in the service of the air corps is reported to be 500, though the official figure, changing from month to month, is secret. That is only a 10 per cent increase since last June.

How soon our air defense will be implemented depends, of course, on the rate of production, now at about 700 planes a month of all types, and on how many are released to the British as they come off the assembly line.

The air corps received less than 50 tactical planes in November. On December 18, defense officials said none of the thousands of combat planes ordered by the war department since last summer was expected to be delivered until well in 1941. The air corps has begun releasing to England the heavy, four-engine consolidated bombers it ordered for itself.

Manufacture of two types of new parents, the Bell Interceptor and the two-engine Lockheed Pursuit-Interceptor, has barely begun. Proposals to manufacture 500 fighting planes a day in automobile factories, such as that advanced by Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, brings fresh to the fore the engine bottleneck.

Called "Loose Talk"

On December 10, in Miami, Charles S. Garland, financial adviser to the industrial materials division of the defense commission, characterized as "loose talk" the production of hundreds of airplanes a day.

Criticism of American planes, from unofficial sources in England, and from some unofficial critics in the United States, seems to stem from the performance of obsolescent pursuits which were hurried to France soon after the outbreak of the war and to England after the French debacle.

The new Atlantic bases leased from England fit snugly into that defense scheme. The immediate production of fighting planes, now being pushed with such "terrible urgency," as described by William Knudsen, director of production, management for defense, largely is for embattled Britain.

Police Magistrate Gives Judgment From His Cell

Elizabeth, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—It was in an unusual setting that Police Magistrate E. R. Creason of Elizabeth awarded a judgment for damages to two plaintiffs in a suit against a floorplan mining company here this week.

The police magistrate was in the county jail, held in lieu of paying a fine and costs of $20.60 following his conviction on a charge of intoxication.

HELD TO GRAND JURY

Indianapolis, (AP)—Harold Yazell, 21, a Collinsville, Ill. jockey, was ordered held to the Western Illinois federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Mann act after he waived preliminary hearing on arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Howard S. Young. Yazell, whose bond was set at $2,500, was arrested here a week ago and charged with transporting two sisters, 16 and 18 years old, from Collinsville to Louisville, Ky., for immoral purposes. The 18-year-old girl was held as a material witness.

ORDERS

A business man went to the barber shop and seating himself in the chair, said: "Cut all three short."

"What do you mean?" asked the barber.

"Hair, whiskers, and chatter," was the reply.

ACQUAINTED

Opera Star: "Yes, 20 long years I have sung in the Metropolitan."

Admirer: "Gee, you musta known Madam Butterfly when she was only a caterpillar?"

IN THE VERNACULAR

The teacher was trying to impress upon her young pupils in the tenement district the importance of being original. She illustrated by saying:

"Mickey, repeat these sentences in your own words: 'I see a cow. The cow is pretty. The cow can run.'"

Mickey said: "Boy, lamp de cow. Ain't she a honey? An' I ask you, kin she take it on the lam?"

Illinois Lawmakers to Face Problems of Aiding in Defense Work of Nation

By ROBERT HEWETT
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—For the first time in more than 20 years, the Illinois legislature will find problems of aiding in national defense near the top of the list of important business.

The 62nd general assembly will be asked to appropriate funds for a newly created militia or "home guard," grant wide powers to a nine member Illinois defense council, help municipalities in financing construction of airports and pass anti-sabotage laws.

The defense council of business, labor, and professional leaders already has been appointed by Governor Stelle who also authorized the recruiting of 9,000 volunteers in the Illinois reserve militia to replace the National Guardsmen being called to federal service.

An appropriation to provide uniforms and perhaps pay for active duty will be asked by the reserve militia. Another appropriation must be made to conduct a survey of defense resources planned by the council headed by Murray W. Baker of Peoria.

Plans Home Guards' Uniforms
Major General John V. Clinch, commander of the reserve militia, has planned khaki uniforms for the home guards. Questions of financing the militia are still undecided pending the inauguration of Governor-elect Dwight H. Green.

The defense council is expected to seek legislation empowering it to extend its preparedness powers.

Howard Knotts of Springfield, chairman of the Illinois aviation conference, said legislation also would be sought to aid municipalities in financing airport construction as a defense measure.

The present law permits cities to finance airport construction with issuance of revenue bonds—which Knotts called "practically impossible."

Plans for Aviation

The aviation conference, he said, will seek legislation to permit cities to use excess corporate funds (provided by oil revenue in some southern Illinois municipalities), to use other public lands such as county poor farms for air ports, and to permit issuance of bonds or levying a special tax.

Model state laws strengthening the state's police powers also are being prepared by the national defense commission, which recommends their enactment by every state. Such bills to be introduced in the legislature call for sabotage prevention, control of explosives, and permission of "fresh pursuit" of suspected criminals from one state to another without usual legal restrictions.

Dies Group Asks That U. S. Workers All Be Citizens

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Dies committee recommended legislation requiring all federal employees to be American citizens and proposed that national defense employment be denied to members of any group under control of a foreign government.

In its year end report to the house, the committee recommended a legislative program built around deportation of aliens, spies and saboteurs and asked that the committee work be continued for two years "with an adequate appropriation."

The committee, which officially expired Friday, proposed:

1. Legislation to bring about the immediate mandatory deportation of alien spies and saboteurs.

2. Mandatory deportation of aliens who advocate any basic change in the form of the United States government.

3. Legislation requiring that all employees and officials of the federal government be American citizens.

4. The withholding of federal funds from any educational institution which permits members of its faculty to advocate communism, fascism or nazism.

5. Legislation to outlaw every political organization which is shown to be under control of a foreign government.

Also today, committee officials announced that investigators were inquiring into reports that soviet Russia had transferred as much as $3,000,000 in recent months to the account of the German government in a New York bank (Chase National).

Defendants Hide; Only 41 Summones Served In Anti-Handbook Case

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien reported today his deputies had been able to serve only 41 of the 1,380 summonses on defendants in Attorney General John Cassiday's anti-handbook injunction case.

The subpoenas called for the appearance of the defendants in the St. Clair county Circuit court in Belleville Jan. 6.

O'Brien said attempts had been made to serve all the summonses but because the names of the defendants had been announced before the subpoenas were delivered to his office by Cassidy, most of the defendants had gone into hiding.

The sheriff's staff has until Monday to continue attempts at service.

PHILANTHROPIST DIES

Lincoln, Ill.—(AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Clarence J. Tomlinson, wealthy Mt. Pulaski bachelor farmer and philanthropist, who died in Deaconess hospital yesterday.

Tomlinson, who was 71, was credited by friends with having contributed thousands of dollars to Lincoln college, Mt. Pulaski churches and Logan county libraries. They also said he had outfitted hundreds of children and aided many needy families. Services will be held at Mt. Pulaski.

One night a man in a car was run down at the level crossing. Consequently the old signalman in charge had to appear in court.

After a grueling cross-examination he was still unshaken. He said he waved his lantern frantically, but to no avail.

The following day the superintendent of the line called him into his office.

"You did wonderfully well, yesterday, Tom," he said. "I was afraid at first that you might break."

"No sir," replied Tom, "not as long as that lawyer didn't ask me whether my lantern was lit."

THAT'S IT

On Willie's return from first dancing lesson, his Aunt Amelia inquired, "Well, Willie, how do you like your dancing lesson?"

"Oh," he replied, "It's easy. All you have to do is turn around and keep wiping your feet."

FDR'S Powers Said Equal to Problems of National Arming

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The president has sufficient emergency powers at present, an administration legal expert declared, to cope with any problem likely to arise in carrying out the nation's defense program.

This same authoritative source added in an interview that to forward the defense preparations, no broad or inclusive declaration of "emergency" was either necessary or possible.

In addition to the emergency powers granted by specific statutes, he pointed out, the president is cloaked with others through the Constitution, although the chief executive never have been fully explored or specifically defined.

Presidential emergency powers, the legal expert explained, are applied step by step, and not by any blanket proclamation. Thus, when the president declared a "limited emergency" on Sept. 8, 1939, it was not limited in its effectiveness, but only with respect to the fields in which it was to operate.

Affects Neutrality
The 1939 emergency declaration affected the enforcement of neutrality and the strengthening of national defense within the limits of peacetime authorizations, the expert said, and it can be applied to anything which might reasonably be placed in those categories.

An "emergency" with respect to the president's monetary powers has been in effect since March 1933, and Roosevelt now has, under that proclamation, all of the fiscal powers he could acquire short of war or new legislation.

The justice department compiled a list of statutes involving grants of power to the president "in emergency or state of war" at the request of the senate more than a year ago. The report made clear that these were in addition to his powers under the Constitution.

Two Williamson County Relief Agents to Prison

Marion, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Webb, 35, discharged negro relief worker, and Mrs. Elizabeth Stearns, middle-aged housewife of nearby Colp, will serve prison terms of one to 14 years for forgery as a result of Williamson county's $8000 relief fraud investigation.

After withdrawing pleas for probation, they were committed Friday to the women's prison at Dwight by Circuit Judge Lloyd Bradley of Carbondale.

At the same time he granted probation to Mrs. Mary D'Aguastino, Colp widow, who had pleaded guilty to a forgery charge. She has two children in high school and her plea for probation was not opposed by the state.

The prosecution contended that Mrs. Webb padded relief rolls with the names of 26 non-existent persons and the others aided her in cashing relief checks issued to the "ghost" clients.

Ten persons were indicted in the investigation but the other seven either were exonerated or charged against them were dismissed.

Demos Spend $2,438,091 On Campaign; GOP Reports $2,812,003

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Democratic national committee has reported it spent $2,438,091 in its 1940 political activity, and the Republican national committee listed its expenditures at $2,812,003.

The disbursements of both, as reported to the clerk of the house, were within the $3,000,000 limit fixed by the Hatch act.

The Democratic committee reported its receipts amounted to $2,452,131, including $105,000 in loans, at $425,061.

The Republican committee listed its receipts for the year at $2,931,210, including $569,260 which it collected for state committees and remitted to them. The Republican report, however, did not disclose whether the committee had any outstanding obligations.
